Bread for the Journey

“Bread is called the staff of life because it is the very basic food that supports life. When people can't get other foods, a small piece of bread will provide nourishment.” Rev. Margaret Minnicks

Letterpile.com

“I have always found bread-making to be an intensely spiritual endeavor. Somehow flour, water, yeast and salt — the most common and mundane of ingredients — are combined to make something warm and hearty and magical. A miracle. . . . It requires creativity and attention and patience and hope.” Caitlin Kennell Kim

The Spirituality of Making Bread

A time for reflection and prayer, to ponder the sacramental richness of the mixing, baking and sharing of bread.

Each ingredient, each step of the process can reveal to us its deeper meaning: from the grain and leaven, the kneading and rising, to the shaping and baking and finally the sharing and invitation to be “eucharist” for one another

“I am the Bread of Life”
